Fourth Annual Interurban Picnic Sunday

The fourth annual reunion of the Texas Electric Railway and North Texas Traction Company, was held Sunday, June 5, at Finch Park, this city, with some 150 former employes and their families present. A feature of the day's gathering was the bounteous basket lunch, at the noon hour.

Sunday's picnic attracted old friends from scattered points throughout Texas: Walter Silvus came from Galveston, Doris Lawson from Amarillo, Ed Oliver from Los Fresnos, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McBride from Baytown and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brock from San Antonio. Other guests were from Wichita Falls and the Valley.

For many the day was one of nostalgic memories.

Most of the former employees took other jobs but some were able to retire with pensions under the Railroad Retirement Act.

Memorial services for 13 companions who died during the past year ended the picnic on a somber note. A moment of prayer was observed for Claxton Brantley, W. B. Eason, and Mrs. Wadus Pendergrass of Dallas; L. M. Black, C. C. Eastland and B. F. Gullett of Waco; Sam Polk of Ennis, Jim Snider of Amarillo, Orbie Lee Waters of Lancaster, Jim Curry of Myrtle Springs, Henry Rollins, and Mrs. J. H. Hardaway of Melissa.

Officers were elected for the coming year: E. M. Atherton of Sherman, president; L. L. Coe, W. E. Monroe and Urban Lucas, all of Dallas, vice-presidents; Ed Trantham, assistant secretary; and John Sears of McKinney, treasurer.

Building Collapse Stirs Memories Of Catastrophe

The collapse of the downtown building in Dallas this week brings to mind one of the most horrible catastrophes ever known in McKinney, when a similar tragedy occurred here.

Many of the old-timers will remember the collapse of the Odd Fellows three-story brick building on Thursday evening, January 23, 1913. The first two floors of the building was occupied by Cheeves Bros. & Co. department store. The Central National Bank now occupies the location on the Northeast corner of the McKinney public square. A review of the tragedy was taken from the files of the Daily Courier-Gazette, January 23, 1913, as follows:

"Some 50 to 60 persons were buried in the debris of the fallen building, with eight lives snuffed out within the twinkling of an eye fourteen seriously injured. The property loss was estimated at $100,000.

The persons killed in the wrecked building were Mrs. Marie Emerson Stiff, Miss Rosa Welch, Miss Katie Milligan, Miss Bessie Wade, Russell Hight, Miss Eva Searcy, Norman Presley and Leslie Bush.

Those reported injured were Miss Anna Curts, Mrs. Hugh Kistler and little three-year-old daughter, Anna Graves Kistler, Mrs. Wick Graves, John Thomas, Mrs. Belle McWilliams, Miss Lida Moreland, Miss Jennie Barnett, Miss Russell, Mrs. Mort Shirley, Miss Lula Searcy, Vernie Graves, Miss Cassie Seay and the colored porter in the store.

The building collapsed without warning, giving the people in the store no chance to escape and burying them in the debris. A big sale was in progress and the store was crowded at the time. To make the catastrophe more appalling, fire broke out in the building and despite the work of the firemen, the fire raged for an hour or more.

As soon as the dust had cleared away sufficiently more than a thousand willing, workers climbed upon the mass of wreckage and with axes and every manner of tool went to work to rescue those who had been buried beneath the brick, mortar and timbers. At 11 p.m. the last victim was removed. People from all nearby towns rushed to McKinney to offer help. Splendid discipline was maintained and there was no vandalism reported.

Never before in the history of the telephone system here was the exchange put to such a test as on this occasion. And the splendid system of discipline and unselfish loyalty to duty in such a trying time has builded a monument to their fidelity, bravery and trustworthiness that will endure for all time.

The news of McKinney's greatest disaster spread like a raging fire over the United States, as was shown by the early telegrams received from people in distant states. Motion picture men from Dallas were here early the next morning with their machines taking pictures of the collapsed building as the hands were clearing away the debris.

Chief Otho Nitcholas and members of the McKinney police department are investigating the robbery of the Wilson Food Store, 1001 North Tennessee Street, which occurred early Friday morning. The safe in the store, which held $1,000 in cash, was stolen sometime between midnight and 3 a. m. Friday.

Entrance to the store was gained through the front door, where the lock had been broken. Officers believe the robbery the work of professionals, the 400-pound safe requiring two or more people to remove it from the store. The safe was found at 5:10 a .m. Friday at the corner of Graves and Erwin Streets, in Northwest McKinney, by City Officers Alton Kimzey and Aubrey Mayse. All papers, and other articles in the safe were intact with the exception of the $1,000 cash.

Tommy Wilson, owner of the store, reports thus far nothinug else is missing, including the cash register which held a small amount of money.

A. S. C. Program Will Assist Farmers

The Collin County A. S. C. offer Federal cost-sharing on the performance of conservation practices such as terraces; diversion terraces; shaping waterways; construction of livestock water dams; pasture improvement; construction of erosion control, detention, or sediment retention dams to prevent or heal gullying; establishing of additional acreage of summer legumes for summer protection from erosion under the 1955 program.

The Federal government is very much interested in the conservation and building up of the soil of the nation and offer to share the cost in doing so,—approximately 50 percent advises R. J. Wilson, chairman of the Collin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation. Many farmers at the present time are making plans to terrace after the harvest of their grain crops. Quite a few farmers have completed livestock water dams and since the rains have nice ponds for their livestock.

Now is a good time for farmers to consider building up the productivety of their farms by planting cowpeas on their stubble land, advises Mr. Wilson.

The Collin County A. S. C. located at 123 S. Tenn. St., McKinney, will be glad to assist you in any way possible with your Conservation problems.

THE HOME TOWNERS
THE GREEN LIGHTS ARE ON IN McKINNEY AND COLLIN COUNTY

YOUR HOME Towner has moved from Kentucky Street to Carol Street. This move has been in progress for several days. Most of you have gone through this and it is probably nothing new to you. But we had not moved in a long, long time and WHAT we found when we started packing up. This is a partial list of the things:

One pair of old red suspenders.

One World War I Army lieutenants coat.

One picture of sister when she was a little girl.

One tuxedo suit, size 36 (we wear size 48 now).

One cowhorn.

One of our own pictures when we were 18 with a real "pompadour."

One baseball bat (Louisville slugger).

Seven sets of plans for homes we never built.

Graduating diploma from Castle Heights Military College.

One book, "Tom Swift and His Electric Rifle."

And many other items too numerous to mention.

Moving's not so bad when you got a guy like Ollie Foster in charge, he just runs things smooth. We made several trips from the office off and on to our new place Friday and on one trip Ollie was standing in the living room with a Spinet piano under his arm asking my wife "where you want this?" Well, maybe not that exactly, but things just ran that smooth.

Even after the rain last night and staring at the yard solid with Johnson grass, moving's not so bad.

Mommie, hand me the liniment my back's killing me.

MRS. R. C. BELT, 1202 South Tennessee, calls in and says she has seven kittens to give away. They are part Persian and are really cute. Every one ought to have a cat, sometimes we have as high as ten.

MARRIES AT FOREST GROVE

MRS. BOBBY MAX OSBURN

The Christian Church at Forest Grove was the scene of a beautiful wedding Saturday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock when Miss Rose Janelle Johnson, of Dallas, became the bride of Bobby Max Osburn, of Dallas.

Rev. Patrick H. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian Church of Valley Center, Kansas, brother of the bride, heard the exchange of vows, before an archway decorated with fern. On either side were standing baskets of gladiolus and the background was formed of palms, ferns and standards holding tapered candles.

Pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. J. T. Segroves, of Dallas, who played "Traumerai," "One Alone" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Mrs. Leroy Veale sang "My Hero" and "Because" and James E. Ladd II sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the impressive ceremoy. Mrs. Segroves played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted W. Johnson of 207 North Choctaw Street, Shamrock, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law E. G. Glasgow of Amarillo. She wore a formal wedding gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon illusion over ivory satin. The fitted bodice of ivory lace featured a low scalloped neckline outlined in appliqued lace flowers, and an inset yoke of illusion also outlined in appliqued lace flowers. Long fitted sleeves, came to petal points at her wrists. Falling from the fingertip skirt of calloped lace were three tiers of nylon forming a chapel train. The fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a coronet of flowers and she carried a bride's bouquet of pink roses and English ivy, centered with a white orchid and tied with satin streamers.

The bride's attendants were Miss Betty Tinsley of Shamrock who was maid of honor ,who wore pastel silk organdy fashioned with a Grecian style bodice and full flowing skirt. Her colonial bouquet was blue carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Wilmoth of Mesquite, Mrs. Don De' Buse, of Wink, who wore pastel blue silk organdy fashioned after the maid of honor's dress, and carried bouquets of pink carnations. Diane Snider of McKinney was flower girl and wore pastel blue organdy with a basket of pink carnations.

BASEBALL

By NORMAN SCOTT

VA Hospital 9, Farmersville 5.

McKinney VA Hospital took advantage of 5 bases on balls, 2 doubles, a sacrifice, and a ground-out to score 6 runs in the bottom of the first inning for a lead that they never relinquished and went on to down the Farmersville Ramblers 9-5 at the VA Park in McKinney Sunday afternoon in a North Texas League game.

Right-hander G. T. Rose retired the first fifteen Ramblers to face him with the help of a double play and a perfect throw by catcher Don Anderson to nip a Rambler stealing second. The only runners to reach base on Rose in the first five innings were the result of a walk and an error. Centerfieder Caldwell led off the Rambler sixth with a home run over the centerfield fence for the first hit off Rose and before the inning was over, pitcher short-stop doubled home right-Charlie Smith also homered and fielder J. Morris, who had walked for the third run of the inning. Don Anderson relieved Rose at the start of the seventh and gave up the other two runs to the Ramblers, one unearned, and he other on a home run by first-baseman G. E. Hemphill in the ninth. Rose was the winner.

Charlie Smith went the distance for Farmersvile and his wildness in the first inning proved to be his down-fall. He walked eight and struck out only 1.

First-baseman Jim Hardin had a double and single in 4 official trips, left-fielder Bill Brawford cracked out 2 doubles in 5 times, and short-stop Charlie Lovelady tagged Smith for a longhome-run with one-on-base in the bottom of the eighth, in leadin gthe VA batsmen.

The Ramblers had only 4 hits, all for extra bases, a double by Hess, and the home runs by Caldwell, Smith, and Hemphill.

The victory enabled VA to pull into a virtua tie with Anna and Farmersvile for first place. Anna was rained out at Denton and took over first place, 33 percentage points ahead of the Ramblers. VA trails the Coyotes and Ramblers by ½ game and will go to Farmersville Thursday night for the return game of their present two-game series.

"Return Something To The Soil--Or The Soil Will Turn Against You"

...News From The... COUNTY AGENT

By V. L. DAHLBERG

IF A DAIRY COW COULD TALK

If a dairy cow could talk, she'd be telling about Dairy Month and the abundant, economical buys in milk, ice cream, and other dairy products which awaits consumers during June.

Sponsored by the dairy industry, "Dairy Month" is so designated to coincide with periods of highest milk production, making supplies plentiful at the grocer's. Milk surplusses during this time are causing problems for many producers. Much of the extra milk is going into ice cream, cheese, butter and evaporated, condensed and powdered milk.

Dairy authorities say that if consumers would step up their milk and related product purchases, these surplusses soon would disappear. Some 10,000 herds furnish Grade A milk for Texas, adding $200,000,000 to the state's farm income.

The Dairy Month Program is under jurisdiction of a committee composed of representatives of various segments of the industry. Texans are urged by the committee to make June "have another glass of milk month" in their homes.

HINTS OFFERED FOR A SAFER VACATION

Vacation motor travel is big business in the United States. Each year more and more vacationers take to the road, with the majority in private cars and the average car is driven 1,200 miles during the vacation. As motor travel booms, traffic accidents, especially in rural areas, also booms.

The Texans Farm and Ranch Safety Committee offers a few suggestions which thesy feel, if followed, will take some of the boom out of accidents. Give the family car a thorough check-up before starting and watch for signs of troublt along the way. Don't block vision, say the experts, by improperly loading ehe car. Good vision is a must for safe driving.

Be prepared for emergencies. A first aid kit, maps, permits, identification, a flashlight and a tool kit and may be a few spare parts should be carried along.

With the driver rests much of the responsibility for a safe trip. His efficiency is greatly affected by fatigue. Plan the trip, urges the committee, to allow rest stops during the day and a good night's rest each night. And don't try to drive and see the sights at the same time.

Ignorance of the law is only an excuse. Most states use standard traffic sign shapes. They are a constant guide to safe driving, know and obey them.

Traffic will be a problem during the vacation season in all parts of the country. Just don't get in a hurry and don't drive faster than conditions justify, says the committee. Be adaptable and fit your driving to the peculiaritites and conditions that exist in the areas through which you may travel.

Finally, says the committee, take safety with you. It will bring you home in good shape and you can look forward to next year's trip.

TEEN-AGERS NEED MORE DAIRY FOODS

The calcium requirement is higher during adolescense than during any period of childhood, so food and nutrition specialists tell us. Milk and dairy foods provide three-fourths of the calcium in our food supply. Yet, many teen-agers, especially girls, have low milk intakes.

June is Dairy Month. Why not plan now to include more milk in family meals and beverages.

Cheeses of all kinds can add real taste appeal as well as important to sandwiches, cold-plates, or salads during the hot weather ahead. Frosty milk drinks and ice creams provide lots of energy and food value for busy, growing teen-agers.

4-H ROUND-UP PROGRAM FEATURES SHORTCOURSES

The 2,000 4-H Club delegates and adult leaders expected for 4-H Round-Up at College Station June 8-10 will have a choice of 17 shortcourses in various home economics and agriculture subject-matter fields. Specialists are busy making final arrangements for this special leadership training.

The clothing shortcourse will feature wardrobe planning. A dress review is planned to show appropriate dress for different occasions.

In the money-management shortcourse, 4-Hers will take a look at different ways teen-agers get their money, how they use it, and some problems of money management in dating.

The foods and nutrition shortcourse will include special table service and etiquette, shopping tips, and food for special occasions.

Leadership training will be emphasized in the recreation shortcourse to be conducted by Dr. Gordon Jones, director 4-H and rural youth of the Indiana Extension Service.

How 4-H activities and demonstrations fit into total family plans will be discussed in the Farm and Home Development shortcourse. Main interests and concerns of today's families will be studied in the family life short course, using family size groups to develop the ideas and activities.

Shortcourses are planned to give 4-Hers and adult leaders new ideas in methods as well as subject matter to take back to clubs in their respective counties.

FARM MANAGEMENT

BY SAM MANN
Associate County Agent

SAFETY

No amount of talk will replace an arm, leg, finger for crippled body. Be careful, practice Safety. Remember farming is the third most hazardous occupation.

Carelessness, fatigue, overwork and becoming mad increases one's chances of having an accident 100 per cent. You can prevent an accident on your farm during this heavy work season if you will only try.

To keep these accidents from happening to you it would be wise for every family to follow the following 10 commandments for farm safety.

1. Keep machines in good repair: Make sure your equipment is in safe working condition. Keep all guards and safety devices in place.

2. Operate tractor safely: Strat tractors smoothly and turn corners slowly. Avoid ditches, banks and soft ground.

3. Know and obey all traffic laws: Be a safe, careful driver, and drive a safe car.

4. Be firesighted: Don't smoke around the barn. Don't start fires with kerosene. Be careful with matches.

5. Speak to animals when approaching them: Animals may "bolt" if startled, so calemly assure them of your presence when approaching.

6. Be a good housekeeper: Keep ladders in good repair. Make sure barn floors have no treacherous holes. Watch your step.

8. Follow safety instructions: Following printed instructions can save your life. Read and heed them whether they are "No Smoking" signs in the barn, or labels on machinery.

9. Know and obey water safety rules: Don't swim alone. Know the depth of the water before diving in. Sit still in small boats.

10. Apply First Aid promptly: Keep first aid kit in the home, in the barn, and on the tractor. Seconds count when infecion may set in.

ONIONS

The Collin County onion crop is in full swing now with approximately three-fourths of the onions harvested at his time.

Cured onions are generally graded at central packing sheds where jumbos and undersized onions are sorted out. The standard container for shipment is an openmesh 50-pound sack. The onions are shipped in refrigerated cars.

This years crop is a very good one in Collin County and weather conditions have been fair to good on the crops. However, movement of the onions is slow at this time, and many growers and shippers or storing their onions.

Yields of 100-125 sacks per acre on white onions and 125-150 sacks on yellow onions are about the average for the county. Prices range from $1.15 to $1.35 on yellow onions and $1.75 to $2.00 on white onions per sack.

FARMING COSTS GOING UP

Farming costs are likely to go up very soon taking into consideration the future hike in steel prices, increase in minimum wage, construction boom and more movement of farm labor to the city. This means an increase in cost of machinery, building materials and labor.

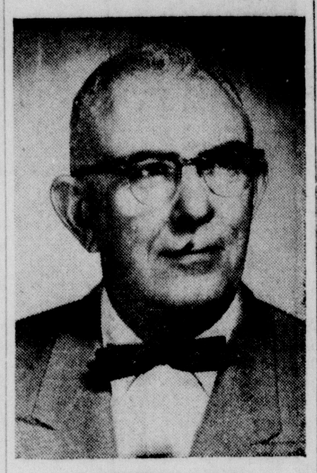
Gainesville Man Writes History Of Cooke County



A. MORTON SMITH

"The first 100 years in the Cooke County." By A. Marton Smith is reviewed as follows and will be of interest to readers in this county.

Four dramatic eras — of pioneering, ranching, farming and oil production — have dominated the development of Cooke County Texas, in the first 100 years of its history — the county celebrated its cenennial in 1948.

For centuries, the 909-square miles of sandy Cross Timbers and gentle rolling prairies of Cooke County — bounded on the north by Red River — felt only the stealthy tread of the Indian and the scurrying of wild game.

The first white man to set foot on Cooke County soil, it appears probable, was Coronado in 1540 or 1541. Coronado had been guided to this area by a Caddo Indian whom he met in what is now Mexico City. Grasping an opportunity to return to his homeland, the Indian is said to have led Coronado and his band in search of the Seven Cities of Cibalo, supposedly housing huge stores of precious metals.

Two years alter, after the French explorer De Coto had died in his search west of the Mississippi River for the "Chritian of the West" his followers crossed Coronado's trail, possibly in southeast Cooke County.

To write the story of Cooke County, no person could be better qualified than A. Morton Smith, a native of Gainesville, the managing editor of the Gainesville Daily Register, one of the founders of the famous Gainesville Community Circus, and chairman of the Cooke County Centennial Commission.

He has produced a vigorous, sympathetick accurate and inspiring story as the people of all Cooke County — past and present — weather wars and pestlience, financial depressions and inflationary periods, to build a county founding is robust and for ward which one hundred years afer its looking, girded for the challenge of a second century of world progress.

Events chronicled include the coming of the Butterfield Stage Line, which passed through the county en route from St. Louis to San Francisco; the Great Hanging of the Civil War Days; the last Indian raids in the county; the arrival of the Iron Horse; cattle boom days; the Gay Nineties; the period of Cooke County's standing as the banner agricultural county in Texas before World War I; the discovery of oil the Depression years and World War II; and finally the celebration of the county's centennial.

From this story the reader may experience a warm and good feeling of humble gratitude. "One cannot absorb so much of the fact and legend of the eary days of this country," Mr. Smith says, "without a growing admiration for the frontiersmen who pushed westward to cast their lot in this virgin territory of five score years ago . . . What they lacked in material resources were more than offset by faith courage religion and a spirit of unity that made their tasks much easier than they otherwise would have been. Such a beginning should be an inspiration for the people of Cooke County today."

Second Annual Soil District Field Day Held

Over 100 farmers and business men attended the second annual Collin Soil Conservation District Field Day held May 27, in the North Collin and South Grayson Counties area.

Clinton Harbers, outstanding South Texas farmer, pointed out that for a landoperator to have complete control of his operation, Soil fertility must first be raised to a high level.

Harbers emphasized that trying to farm worn out land, nothing would work: Equipment wouldn't plow right; insecticides wouldn't do their job; mechanical harvesting equipment wouldn't work; and even a good stand of cotton or corn was hard to get. But when soil fertility is raised through use of properly managed legumes, everything works right.

In giving his own experiences, Harber brought out that before soil conservation was started on his farm, cotton produced one-quarter bale to the acre. Following properly managed legumes, cotton yields increased to 754 pounds lint cotton per acre by 1953. In spite of only 10 inches of rain during the entire year, 1954, three inches after cotton was planted, cotton produced 497 pounds lint per acre. His success for the high yield was contributed to organic matter in the soil. Moisture that fell was properly utilized.

Harbers further remarked that it now takes 110 days to mature a cotton crop and 80 days a corn crop on his farm.

And before conservation was begun it took 160 to 180 days.

"Labor was a costly item which included hoeing and picking. In other words, I wasn't in control of my operation. With my soil built up through clovers and everything working right, which it will do on good land. I can harvest a bale of cotton for around $5.00," declared Harbers.

To be successful Harbers believes land operators must follow a good Soil Conservation program: Plant legumes for Soil conditioning; do a minimum of cultivations; let the number of plants per acre correspond with the level of fertility; and follow a recommended insecticide program .

Four stops were made on the field tour. On the Zac Emerson farm, it was pointed out that land which had been in winter legumes showed no evidence of cross-washing or erosin from recent rains. Immediately below where no legumes had been planted, cross-washing occurred, washing up and covering up young cotton, and sweeping top soil off the farm.

According to Curtis Deaver, Soil Conservation Service technician, legumes protected the land, added organic matter, improved the soil structure, and raised the level of fertility. And, at the same time, opened up the soil whereby more efficient use can be made of water that falls, Deaver's also showed the effects of wet tillage—why compacted soil is heavier per cubic foot, and why compaction restricts the passage of roots, air and water.

King Ranch Bluestem was observed on the Mrs. Virgil Flesher farm. K. R. Bluestem is growing on steep, eroded soil that had become uneconomical to cultivate. Technicians of the SCS stressed the necessity of giving a base grass time to get started.

Soil and water conservation practices were observed on the G. W. Comegy farm. George Davis, SCS technician, told the group that Comegy had been cooperating with the Collin Soil Conservation District since 1952. Davis reviewed the many Soil and Water practices which had been applied on the Comegy farm.

Channel-type terraces were seen which are emptying onto Bermuda grass waterways. Charles Duncan, SCS engineer, brought out the advantages of this type terrace over the big ridge type. Duncan further emphasized the importance of waterway maintenance-mowing to control weeds and sprouts, fertilization to keep grass vigorous and field roads away from waterways.

Garner Jones, SCS Flood Prevention Engineer, explained the functions of a flood prevention structure. The stop was made on Joe Clarkson's farm South of Van Alstyne, Jones pointed out that structures of this nature are to intercept run off from big rains and let it into streams gently; thereby, preventing floods before they start.

Right land use was observed on the J. R. Chapman farm. Alon Gaines, SCS technician, pointed out that steep hillsides and overflow land had been sodded to Bermuda grass. And that cultivatible land in between the two would be protected by a diversion terrace emptying onto a sodded waterway.

Other conservation practices pointed out while the tour was in progress were fields of alfalfa, Madrid Clover, Button Clover, Vetch and Native pasture grasses. Additional waterways and terraces were observed. A field of wheat following Madrid Clover was seen on the Clyde Massie farm. Some observers guessed the wheat at 20 bushels per acre. Harbers talk and barbque dinner followed the tour.

Soil Conservation Field Day was sponsored by the Van Alstyne Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with suprevisors of the Collin SCD.

Former McKinney Teacher Weds

MRS. BILLY JOE GRIFFIN

Miss Maxie Ann Drain of Dallas, but former teacher in Boyd High school here, became the bride of Billy Joe Griffin, of Weatherford, Saturday evening, June 4, at 7 o'clock in the Munger Place Methodist Church Dallas. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Drain of Allen and the bridegroom is the son of J. A. Griffin, of Sherman.

Rev. Joseph Connally, pastor of the church was the officiating minister while Miss Gladys Lungren, organist and Matthew Welde, soloist, presented the wedding music.

The bride's colors of rose and white were used in the decoratings of the church and educational building where the reception was held.

Mr. Drain gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in a lovely starlight white imported chantille lace and tule bridal gown fashioned with a high empire bodice of ace and portrait neckline edged with dainty lace flowers. The waistline of the gown was defined with a crushed tafleta cummberbund and daninty lace cap sleeves were complemented by matching lace gauntlets. The bouffant skirt was accented with a set-in peplum edged with ruffled tulle over a pleated tulle skirt that was floor length. She wore a single strand of pearls, and a flowing wedding viel caught to a flowered headpiece. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid showered with stephanotis.

Lt. Lynge Reports For Air Force Duty

Reporting for duty at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, on June 3, was Lt. O. Edwin Lynge, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Lynge of Allen.

Lt. Lynge, known as Ed to Allen and McKinney friends, is a former student of Allen and McKinney schools, a Balfour Award nominee, and a 1950 graduate of Boyd High School. He attended Baylor University for three years where as an AFROTC cadet, he took part in rescue work following the Waco tornado in May 1953. Due to exposure during the rescue operations, Ed took pneumonia and was told by his doctor that, unless he could clear his congested lungs and gain some 25 pounds, he would be unable to continue his Air Force training program.

Deciding it would be easier on his 6'4" "skinny" frame for him to live at home in Allen and commute to SMU, Ed was able to re-enter college in September, 1953, when he again took up his AFROTC program and his academic major in biology and related sciences.

In May 1954, the young cadet was made wing commander of the SMU Air Force ROTC unit, with the rank of cadet colonel. Halftime activities at the SMU-Baylor football game in the Cotton Bowl last Fall went under the direction of this ex-Baylorite-now-Mustang, connading the 700man cadet corps before a nationwide television audience.

On November 3, 1954, Cadet Col. Lynge represented the AFROTC cadets of SMU in accepting the gift of an F-84 Thunderjet from the Texas Air National Guard. At that time, SMU was the only university in the country with its own jet plane. In December 1954, the senior cadet attended the AFROTC training conference at Hensley Field, whre 125 cadet leaders from 15 colleges and universities in this area met with top-ranking Air Force officers from all over the nation.

Cadet Col. Lynge completed his academic requirements for a Bachelor of Science degree in biology, with a minor in psychology, in February of this year, and was commissioned in the Air Force Reserve on February 2, 1955. His commissioning service at Ownby parents attended the review and Stadium, SMU, at that time. Last Monday, May 30, Lt. Lynge was granted his B. S. degree, in absentia, a graduating ceremonies at SMU, and he has now reported for active duty at the San Antonio base.

UNUSUAL ....

Seen About Town

By CAPT. ROY F. HALL

Choice McClure and Wilbur Thompson, composing the Johnson Furniture Company, staged a fine get-together house party at their store last week-end. The affair was an open-house for all, given by them in appreciation for the fine trade they have enjoyed over the years. Up to six o'clock Saturday afternoon almost 8,000 people had visited the store during the two days of the jamboree. Grateful customers brought in several hundred dollars worth of floral desins to decorate the store for the occasion. Not too many children were inside for the picnic. Most of them remained outside, where the Dr. Pepper people had set up a carousel. The kids rode it free for two days.

Saw Mr. Warren D. McAlexander on the street Monday. Mr. Mac is 91 years of age, and looks 60. Came here from Georgia 58 years aog. He spends his summers and falls here, but retires to the Rio Grande valley for the winters. He is hale and hearty; does a days work, picks cotton, hoes and plows. He said his father lived to be 108 and was killed by coffee drinking and by using tobacco.

Monday, as you know, was about perfect as to weather. The temperature stood in the middle 70s, and there was no wind to spoil the sunshine. We have few perfect days in this part of the nation. Bet you didn't know that we live in the hotest part of the United States. It's a fact. While the heat of the far southwest, including Death Valley, goes far above our hottest, our long summers put us in the lead. A strip from around Paris to Precido and about 100 miles wide, is the oven. Our total heat for a summer beats them all.

Orville Broadman was in McKinney Monday from south of Plano, near the Collin-Dallas line. About the only thing interesting about his visit to the county seat lies in his name. Orville's nickname is "Fatty." Fatty Broadman, and Orville is six feet two and weighs 156 pounds. He said his parents gave him the family pet name when he was a baby and weighed 35 ponnds when he was one year of age. Going to sell his farm, he said, as all his children are married and gone, and move to McKinney.

Talked to a man of the jockey yard who had brought in a small load of watermelons from Mineola. He said he got a dollar apiece for them and sold out in an hour. He also claimed he didn't make much profit on watermelons. Let's see now. Vines eight feet apart and at least one melon to a vine would be 625 melons. At a dollar each! Four, the average to a vine would be 2,500! An acre, that is.

James R. Overstreet from Farmersville was in the County seat Friday. Brought his little granddaughter in to get treatment for a boil on her neck. Boils are rare now, but not so as of yore. Everybody went through a siege of them fifty years back. Come to think of it, most of the old complaints have faded out; malaria, meningitis, cholera, yellow fever, diptheria, small pox, erysipelas, typhoid, scarlet fever, lockjaw, dysentery, jaundice, and several others I cannot recall, layed many thousands of people in their graves a half century ago.

It has always puzzled me why the flowering plant, called angel trumpet, does so well on the small lawn around the Collin County jail. Along this same line; the Indian blanket flower seems to have staged a come-back in the county. Sixty years ago they covered the prairies, and then disappeared before the plow. Drive out anywhere and look at them.

Jack Tracy Passes Away Suddenly From Heart Attack

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bolton of this city received a message Sunday evening announcing the death of Jack Tracy, of Corpus Christi. The Bolton and Tracy families were former neighbors in Corpus Christi.
